

Professor David Furukawa is the Chief Scientific Officer for the National Centre of Excellence in Desalination-Australia. He has more than 50 years of experience in desalination. He also serves as Chair of the Research Advisory Board, NWRI, Vice Moderator for the Research Advisory Council, MEDRC, and served on the National Research Council Committee on Advancing Desalination Technology for National Academy of Sciences (2008), and the California Department of Water Resources Project Review Panel (2006).